

Hi Bev,

I need to thank you, from a breeder to a breeder.

All but one of the puppies are in their forever homes and I wanted to pass on the thanks I'm getting about how well-forward, quick learning the puppies are:

A massive big thank you would be a great start but still searching for words that could mean allot more than that.

Borris is an absolute blessing. No need for potty training he goes out by himself, has a good appetite.... woke me at 4 to go for a wee and crawled back in and is still asleep.

NO one can believe that 8/9 week puppies can do it straight-away and I am not sure that I can - but all have reported, so far, that their puppy trots to the door and asks to go out when they want to pee/poo. Before I came across your guide - and I had Googled "a dog at 8 weeks! - I didn't think puppies could be trained so early - and although the first days of big piles of slightly-soiled towels to wash from the bedroom zone were a bit frantic, It sure made life so much easier in the latter weeks.

And having prepared the puppies so well for such an important aspect of their lives with humans would have been worth twice the trouble.

So thank you from all of us

:) Janet
